AFTER ENGLISH GOLD

ANTRIM ESTATE MYTH BRINGS GATHERING TO THIS CITY.

Those Who Believe Themselves Heirs to Millions Will Talk It Over and Become Rich in Imagination.

About sixty people who believe themselves direct descendants of Lord Antrim, whose real name was MacDonnell, will hold a meeting at English's Hotel this morning in the interests of their supposed claims against the Antrim estate, A number of the alleged heirs to the Antrim millions are already here. Mrs. Lucy Forsythe came her claim, and is stopping at the English Hotel. Her great-grandmother was an Antrim. W. C. Fees and wife, of Dunkirk, Ind., and Joseph McConnell and Edward Brooks, of the same place, are also here. Lord Antrim, it is said, had a castle in the north of Ireland and owned a whole county. In 1680 his son, John Antrim, or John MacDonnell, came to America and settled on the present site of Burlington, N. J. It is claimed that Mrs. Anna Priscilla Petrick, of Trenton, N. J., another of the heirs, has a deed to the land on which the city of Burlington stands to-day, The Antrim heirs believe that an estate of $75,000,000 waits for them in England, and they are after it. Fabulous stories are told of Lord Antrim's castle, "Glenarm," which was located in the county of Antrim, in the north of Ireland. The heirs have heard that the estate is yet kept up and that it is the garden spot of Ireland.

John C. New, who, as consul-general, spent nearly four years in England, says the Antrim estate is a myth. "These people are following a rainbow to find a bag of gold," he said, recalling an old fable. "There re no estates in England or Ireland waitthem. Any American who has been a member of the legation in London has had he to look up such matters, speedily disabuse the mind of the applicant of his rosy ideas. The reports of the Bank of England show that there is not a million dollars of un-claimed money in possession of the bank. In England all claims to personal estates lapse after six years, and claims for real estate lapse after twelve years. At the end of thirty years claims against an estate are void, and cannot be maintained."

WILL NOT BE A WALKOVER.

Mr. Taggart May Have Fielding Lee to Oppose His Candidacy.

It is understood that Fielding T. Lee, of the firm of Eastman, Schleicher & Lee, will to-day announce himself as a candidate for Mayor on the Democratic ticket. He was spoken of before the Tagggart boom became irresistible, and when the party leaders were floundering about for a candidate, The sentiment then was for a "business man," and Mr. Lee was the only patriot willing to be sacrificed. The leaders concluded, however, that he was not generally well enough known to serve as the candidate, and his boom was quietly strangled. Then they went to work to eliminate the bleeders from the city central committee and thought themselves able thus to dictate to the convention who should be nominated. The aforesaid bleeders do not take kindly to the treatment given them and are ings hot on that side for the committee. Then there is an element in the party that does not like to vote for a man who holds a liquor license, as does Mr. Taggart. It is from this source that Mr. Lee has received his encouragement. The Taggart forces are accused of unfairness.
Rogers's friends have been found to be and from a sentiment of fair play they have clung to their candidate more tenaciously than they were expected to. Within a few days it has become apparent that if Mr. Taggart is to be nominated he must fight for the honor in the convention. The en-thusiasm of the party leaders about party victory at the polls has given way to a sober reflection that the election will be a st difficult one to win, with the chances in favor of the Republican. The real placing much confidence in alleged dissions among the Republicans. The control of Taggart to be a candidate was extorted from him, and he is now said to be sorry he yielded.

COBDEN CLUB REPORT

BRITISH FREE-TRADERS TAKE ROSY VIEW OF THE SITUATION.

Irishmen Given Little Show by the Conservative Majority in the English House of Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 16 .- The report of the ommittee of the Cobden Club, which is to be read to-morrow, will declare that the change brought about by the recent general elections is calculated to stimulate the club to fresh vigilance. It will add that while the direct advocacy of protection doctrines was less conspicuous during the election of 1895 than in 1886, there are elements in the new Parliament which demand special watchfulness in the interests of free trade. In respect to the depression in agriculture the report will say that nothing is so likely to hinder and defer a satisfactory and permanent solultion of the problem as reopening the question of a revival of the duties on importations of foreign and colonial agricultural products and other produce. There will be an allusion to the importance of the Ottawa conference the economics of commerce, the outcome of which, it is asserted, must help in the di-rection of free exchange all over the world as contrasted with the more or less delusive operation of the ingenious and elaborate fiscal schemes and treaties. The report concludes with the stattement that the history of the tariff question abroad during the last fifteen or twenty years afall the way from Nelson, Neb., to represent at the present time and will assert that from almost every quarter the committee hears of failure of the protective policy to produce satisfactory results in connection with the general interests of the population.

IN THE COMMONS.

Motions in Behalf of Ireland by Dillon and Redmond Defeated. LONDON, Aug. 16 .- In the House of Commons, to-day, the Under Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. George N. Curzon, replying to a question put by Edward E. Carson, said that the government had not deemed it advisable to raise the question of monetary compensation for the relatives of the victims of the Chinese massacres until the culprits had been punished. Mr. Thomas Lough, Liberal member for the West division of Islington, resumed the debate on Mr. John Dillon's motion for an amendment to the address in reply to the Queen's speech, declaring the necessity of in Ireland, in accordance with the recommendations of last year's committee. Mr. Lough said it was a great mistake on the part of the successive governments to ignore the poverty in Ireland when taxation had been increased one and one-half times greater during the last half century, while the population had decreased. Sir Albert Rollit, member for the South division of Islington, and president of the associated chambers of commerce of the United Kingdom, a progressive Conserva-tive, remarked that he did not see any rea-son why the government should not settle the evicted tenant difficult this session. the evicted tenant difficulty this session.

Mr. T. M. Healy criticised the action of Mr. Gerald Balfour in obtaining an engagement from Judge Bewlay, one of the land commissioners, to defer judgments in the land cases before him, pending the government's Irish legislation. Mr. Healy said that any English judge would have been removed from the bench for making such an agreement, and described the sub-land commissioners as not being judges, but day laborers. The Speaker was compelled frequently to call Mr. Healy to order. The latter concluded with remarking that the big government majority represented fluctuations in English political feeling, while the Nationalists represented the permanent the Nationalists represented the permanent element of Irish nationality.

Mr. Dillon's amendment was finally negaived by a vote of 127 to 123, and Mr. John Redmond's amendment, calling upon the government to declare their policy in regard to home rule, the reform of the land law, the compulsory purchase of land, evicted tenants and the industrial condition of Ireland, was rejected by a vote of 243 to 113.

John J. Clancy, the Irish Nationalist member for Dublin county, moved an amendment in favor of reconsidering the sentences of the Irish political prisoners. He hoped the government would do something to close this old sore, and to promote a better feeling between the two countries.

a better feeling between the two countries by granting them amnesty.

Sir Matthew White Ridely, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, said in reply that it was his duty to satisfy himself whether there had been any miscarriage of justice. At present he was engaged in a research to ascertain this. If the accused were guilty their crimes were atroclous and deserved severe punishment. He was unable to promise general amnesty. Mr. Clancy thereupon withdrew his amendment.

A census of Parliament shows that only 190 out of 668 are new members. As to occupations, 150 are lawyers, 54 are manufact-urers, 88 are merchants, 10 professors in universities, 31 journalists, 12 skilled laborers, 19 brewers, distillers and wine merchants, 46 army and navy officers in active service, 146 gentry, peers' sons and peers'

Meeting of the Irish Party. LONDON, Aug. 16 .- The Irish party met to-day in committee of fifteen for the election of the consultative committee. Mr. Healy's supporters appeared to be apathetic and several of them remained in the House of Commons while the meeting was proceeding. After three hours' discussion of Mr. Healy's conduct in the Omagh affair, the meeting adjourned, but it was resumed at 9 o'clock and sat until midnight. It is understood that a motion was carried censuring Mr. Healy. It will be remembered that at the Nationalists' convention at Omagh, County Tyrone, on July 8, Mr. Healy accused John Dillon of selling the Tyrone seats in Parlaiment to the English Liberals. He produced a letter from Edward Blake to Privy Counselor Dickson, asking that Tyrone should be subsidized in the sum of £200 henceforth by the Liberals. He asserted that Thomas E. Ellis, the government whip, consented to this on condition that the seats should be considered Liberal and not home rule. According to a report of the meeting given out for publication John Dillon read the correspondence in connection with the Omagh affair. A motion by Mr. Healy that the correspondence be published was voted down. A strongly worded motion by J. D. Flynn, M. P. for Cork county, censuring Healy's conduct was rejected without a division. A motion by Jeremiah Jordan, M. P. for the South division of Meath, expressing approval of the committee's action re-

RACES DECLARED OFF

Some Fine Races Yesterday-Tw Heats Paced in 2:05 1-4-Buffalo Loses $18,000.

The summer trotting and pacing meeting of the Driving Club came to an unexpected end yesterday afternoon at the close of the day's programme, the directors of the club having decided to declare off the events of to-day. The meeting has not been a successful one in respect to attendance, although members of the club and visiting horsemen express themselves as satisfied with the races given and the time made. Yesterday afternoon was advertised as the red letter day, and yet not to exceed 4,000 people were present, while upon the big day of last year fully 8,000 were present. The attendance for the week has been small, compared to the class of races offered. The Indianapolis club seems to be suffering from the same conditions which have affected other meetings. The Buffalo horsemen are reported to have lost $18,000 at their meeting last week, while the meeting at Terre Haute was not successful. The Indianapolis club comes out over $5,000 short. The events which were intended to be given this afternoon included the 2:40 trot for three-year-olds, the 2:30 pace and the Grand Hotel stake, of $3,000, for the 2:15 pace. After the experience of the week the club has no assurance that there would be any sort of an attendance, and it was decided to withdraw the events end end the meeting last evening. A driving association has the right to withdraw an event at any time.

Another reason is given for not continuing with to-day's programme. The stake money offered to-day is larger than is usually offered for one day's racing. The club would their entry money. Many of the horses first entered have been withdrawn, and the owners, rather than pay the forfeiture, have risked the danger of suspension, knowing that when they come along with a firstclass horse they will have no trouble get-ting back. If this forfeit money had been he members of the club would have to make up the purses for the two events. Thomas Taggart, president of the Driving Club, was asked last night if the experience of the club the last week meant that there would be no more first-class trotting and pacing in this city. He replied:

"It is too early to say yet, but there is a question. We have tried to get good horses here by offering purses as large as any sociation, and we have had good races, but the Indianapolis public has not patronized them. We have no complaint to make, and next year matters may look more hopeful." The Indianapolis Driving Club is composed of Thomas Taggart, Sterling R. Holt, Smith Graves, H. M. Lafollette and E. J. Robinson. These five gentlemen have taken all the responsibility of conducting the meeting since the organization of the club. But once, and that was last summer, has the club come out financially even. The members do not feel at present like con selves. Last night the members held a consultation and talked regarding a running meeting this fall. Popular appetite at present does not seem good for trotting and pacing, and two or three members of the club think perhaps the public would like running races better, where six or seven horses furnish more excitement by coming to the wire in a fight for the race. with a running meeting and there is a strong probability that this fall there will be a week's meeting for runners,

THE RACES YESTERDAY. The crowd that attended the races yesterday afternoon was given an afternoon of good races. The finishes were close and the time was fast. Fidol, a bay horse, by Idol, went two heats in the 2:09 pace in 2:0514. He made the third heat of the race performance. Coastman finished a close second to Fidol in the second and third heats, going the mile in 2:05%. In this race the horses were all well up at the finish, except in the last heat, and a great fight was made for second place. In the two-year-old pace Ananias, a brown colt by Patron, went a mile in 2:131/2. This time has not been beaten but twice this season. Sulphide holds the record at the wonderfu time of 2:09. The 2:16 trot took four heats to finish, which were gone in 2:1314, 2:1234, 2:1234, and 2:1234, being four very fast heats for a race of the class. The crowd yesterday was not disappointed at the exhibition offered. A great deal of interest was taken in the results and nearly everybody remained until the last race was decided. The day was hot and oppressive. The dust hung in the betting inclosure like a dense cloud. Looking from the grand stand long white clouds be seen in different directions marking roads and indicating how dry and dusty it was. The street-car company did the best ever known in furnishing accommodation for a large crowd, but there was some complaints after the races, when persons were packed and crowded for standing room. Lemonade, soda water and beer were consumed in vast quantities. Water was sold in the betting square at 5 cents a drink. The women fanned and sought breezy places in the grand stand, while th men went about with their coats on their arms and handkerchiefs around their

The first race of the afternoon was the two-year-old pace, which was not interestwas hardly a race, simply being an exhioftion whereby Ananias could be exhibited, May Queen and Asa S. were also entered but neither could keep the pace set by Ananias. There was no betting upon the result. In the first heat Ananias went steadily, while the other horses broke frequently. On the stretch Ananias was pulled not to distance Asa S. and May In the second heat the distance flag was taken down, so as to allow Ananias to make a fast mile. The fast colt led from the start, making the quarter in :321/2, the half in 1:06%, the three-quarters in 1:41%, and the mile in 2:13½. Ananias went without a skip or break, and May Queen and Asa S, came in in the order named after the crowd had forgotten them. Interest centered in the 2:09 pace. Cole-idge, being an Indiana horse, was a great favorite in the crowd. In the betting Fidol was the favroite, with Frank Agan and Cole was the favroite, with Frank Agan and Cole-ridge, even money, for second place. Ethel A. sold at 10 to 2 for second place. The horses started off well together, with Cole-ridge at the pole. He broke after an eighth, and allowed the others to get that distance ahead of him before he regained his feet. Then he began to go forward, and made a wonderful fight by keeping from getting distanced. Fidol led by a short distance all the way round, with Gazette and Atlantic King close un. Down the stretch the flyers came, and it was noticed that a little gray shot from the bunch and came forward rapidly. The little gray was Ethel who by her spurt finished second, a half ngth behind Fidol, and the same distance Atlantic King. Gazette was Frank Agan fifth. Colonel Thornton Coastman seventh and Coleridge The finish made by Ethel A. was one of the best ever seen on the Indianapolis track, and many believed that had she started sooner she would have beaten Fidol

Before the second heat Fidol sold as fa-vorite, with Ethel A., Frank Agan and Coleridge even for second place. It remained for Coastman to furnish the sensation for this heat. He crowded Fidol the full mile. and finished second by a neck. Coleridge did most excellent work by gaining three lengths after the half mile was passed, and finishing fourth a nose behind Colonel Thornton, Ethel A, acted badly, as did Atlantic King and Frank Agan, but all were well together at the finish.

Coastman and Coleridge were favorites
for second place before the third heat. Fidol. Frank Agan and Coleridge kept well together until after the half was passed Coastman moved forward, and there was another fine finish-Fidol first, Coastman Coleridge third, Gazette fourth, Agan fifth and Atlantic King sixth. Ethel A. and Col. Thornton were distanced. Fidol won first money, Coastman second. Coleridge third and Atlantic King fourth. Baron Dillon was the favorite in the 2:16 trot. The first heat was a light between him and Maud C. At the finish the two were side by side, but Maud C. broke and fell to second place, with Raven Wilkes a length behind, in third place. The betting was as the horses had finished in the first Roxane, who finished eighth, was sold at 15 to 2. Maud C. acted badly at the start, and Baron Dillon and Roxane went to the front. On the stretch Roxane showed speed and passed Dillon, getting first position, with Maud C. third and Ben B. fourth. In the third heat Baron Dillon won easily, with Ben B. second and Roxane third. It was observed that Ben Wallace did not finish Driver Graves claims that George Fuller, driver of Baron Dillon, ran into his sulky, Cident was intentional. He says Fuller asked him at the quarter not to crowd Baron Dillon out of the :16 class, and that was what Graves would have liked very well to do, not having any hope of winning the heat. The judges heard the statements of the drivers and decided the accident was In the fourth and last heat Baron Dillon took the lead and kept it, with Ben B. second and Roxane third. On the stretch Col. Dickey passed Roxane, the horses finishing in that order. Baron Dillon won first money, Roxane second, Ben B, third and Maud C. fourth.
